AN OVERWHELMING VICTORY In the elections yesterday the Democrats swept the county. It will be seen from the returns that Douglass was elected Criminal Court judge, Harris county trustee, and Cannon sheriff. We congratulate the Democratic party and the good men of the Republican party who voted with the Democrats on the result. Pat in the Feld and the Title So Changed For two years three of the most important offices will be in safe bands. WASHINGTON, August 7.—Maj. Ernst, corps of engineers, in charge of the improvement of the Mississippi between the Illinois and Ohio rivers, and other minor improvements, has made his annual report. The original estimated cost of the improvement, as revised in 1883, was $16,997,100. The appreciate amount appropriated to able for the present fiscal year $525,354, and an appropriation of $1,000,000 is asked for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886. It is proposed to expend the appropriation in carrying out the plan heretofore adopted. This is to first improve that part of the river below St. Louis, to make the improvement continuous, beginning at St. Louis and working down stream, reclaiming land and building up new anks, and reducing the river to an approximately uniform width of about 2500 feet. Alluvial banks are to be protected from erosion. It is proposed by this feet. Alluvial banks are to be protected from erosion. It is proposed by this means to secure a channel with a depth of at least eight feet at the lowest stage. The depth is now liable to become four feet, and even less, in some places, and less than eight feet in every place where the width is greater than 2500 feet. The changeable character of the river, Maj. Ernst says, renders it impracticable to give in advance the exact localities where works will be required. Relative to the work the past year Maj. Ernst ays: "The fands available during the year were not sufficient in amount to justify unnot sufficient in amount to justify un-

They were applied, as far as possible, to such works as were in urgent need of repair and ex-tension to prevent the loss of a part of the results previously obtained." An appro-priation of $41,820 is asked for the im-provement of the Mississippi at Cape Girardeau, and $5000 for the removal of snags in Osage river. No appropriations snags in Osage river. No appropriations are recommended for the improvement of the Mississippi opposite St. Louis, nor fo the river or harbor at Alton, Ill.

Greathouse, T. W. Ecklebayer, John McGrew and S. L. Mosely, were loaded into six mule wagons and started under escort of Lieut. Jackson and fifteen men for Fort Smith, Ark., 300 miles distant. The paper was ready to go to press, and upon inquiry a number of printary were found in the command who soon printed an edition of 100 copies. The press was then carefully parked and loaded into a wagon and started under an escort for Muskogee, it being confiscated property and under law unreplevinable. He was a large man in figure and heart; a sort of David Davis, in person at least, and like most of men of large weight, was tender-hearted and sympathetic. He was appointed by President Andrew Johnson collector of the port of New York, after his retirement from the Senate. The duties of that office and the annoyance of its administration, particularly the appeals for position, bore upon the mind of Mr. King, and one day he was found missing. Efforts to find him were after a week successful, when his body was found floating in the river, attached to which was a twenty-five pound bag of shot. The tender-hearted collector, driven to desperation by the appeals of office seekers, had sought death in this manner. The suicide of so prominent a man created quite a sensation at that time, and it is well remembered by old New Yorkers in the government service here yet.

Whether Mr John Ewing, who represented Iudiana in the Twenty-third and Twenty-tiith Congresses committed suicide, is not stated in history, but his death was at least a curious one. He was found sitting in his chair at Vincennes dead, and the following couplet freshly written lay beside him:

timated that 25,000 persons, including 5000 old soldiers, were here to-day to attend the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Most of the visitors attended Blaine's public reception in the Old Orchard House. Blaine stood in the center parlor, and the crowd passed in single file and shook hands with Blaine and Gov. Robie. The reception ended at noon. "Here lies a man who loves his friends, His God, his country and Vincennes."

His death occurred in 1857.
